University of Kansas Medical Center (KUMC), School of Medicine Summer Programs
The mission of these Summer Programs is to provide academic opportunities that will assist in the development of underrepresented students and their advancement in health-related careers.

Health Science Enrichment Institute - A five-week summer program on the KUMC campus for college Freshmen and Sophomores that offers instruction in various upper level Science and Health related courses, such as Microbiology, Organic Chemistry, and Intro. to Medicine.

Pre-Admissions Program - A five-week summer program on the KUMC campus for college juniors and seniors that provides preparation for the MCAT. Students will also receive an overview for preparing the AMCAS application and information about the medical school admissions process. A flier for these programs is attached and there are snapshots of them below for your convenience to copy and distribute to your students.

Pre-Med Summer Program applications open on Friday, February 1, 2019. For additional information about the programs and the Office of Diversity and Inclusion, visit our website here.
The Louis de la Parte Florida Mental Health Institute (FMHI) at the University of South Florida is dedicated to research and education related to substance use and related disorders. FMHI invites undergraduate students to apply for a highly selective Summer Research Institute that is funded by the National Institute on Drug Abuse (NIDA).

Florida Mental Health Institute

An intensive program for undergraduates interested in substance use research

The Summer Research Institute (SRI@FMHI) is designed for students interested in building their research skills within the context of substance use and co-occurring disorders to help them prepare for a Senior Thesis and/or graduate school.

Dates:

The SRI@FMHI is a 11-week program from May 22, 2019 to August 2, 2019.

Program Structure:

The SRI@FMHI consists of four components: an independent research project conducted with guidance from a distinguished faculty mentor; research seminars; professional development seminars; and skill-building workshops. The research seminars will complement the research that students are conducting with their faculty mentors. Throughout the 11-week period, students will work intensively with faculty mentors on their research projects. In addition, students will gain experience with research ethics, IRB practices, and will participate in a community rotation to gain experience with substance use services in an area related to their research project.

Students will be required to write a research report describing their research project, present the report at a Research Symposium and Poster Session, and submit the completed paper for consideration at an Undergraduate Research Conference or Symposium. Because of the intensity of the summer program, students must participate on a full-time basis and may not be employed or attend other classes during the 11-week program.

Student Application and Selection Process:

Up to 12 students will be selected for the SRI@FMHI. Because each SRI Scholar will be matched with a faculty mentor, primary consideration will be given to those applicants whose area of interest is closely aligned with the expertise of a faculty member who is available to provide mentorship during the summer. Typically, students will be considered for the program if they have begun coursework in their academic major, completed a minimum of 60 hours of college coursework, and have an expected graduation date no earlier than December, 2019. Priority will be given to students who are within 12-15 months of graduation. Courses in statistics and research methodology are required to be eligible. The application form may be obtained at http://www.cbcs.usf.edu/Research/SRI/ or by contacting kamoore@usf.edu. An official transcript and letter of recommendation from a faculty member are required.
Texas Tech School of Law

Oklahoma State University is hosting admissions representatives from Texas Tech on February 19th.
McGeorge School of Law continues to develop innovative methods in legal education, not only for our law school students, but for the greater community as well. To that end, we are extremely excited to announce McGeorge School of Law’s Inaugural Salzburg Undergraduate Pre-Law Program. McGeorge’s Salzburg Study Abroad Program offers a unique opportunity for undergraduate students to study abroad and take a special course not available through any other institution or program. McGeorge is especially honored and proud to offer the “Comparative Legal Systems: Focus on Human Rights” course, where students will have the opportunity to spend time in a 16th century classroom learning from noted scholars, including guest lecturer U.S. Supreme Court Associate Justice M. Kennedy (Ret.). The program will take place July 1st – July 20, 2019. We encourage you to share this exciting opportunity with your students. For detailed information regarding application and program requirement, as well as tuition and fees please visit the Salzburg Undergrad Pre-Law Program web page. Apply here. You may also contact our International Programs Office at mcgeorgesummerabroad@pacific.edu.

Harvard Law Junior Deferral Program Information Session

Are you a freshman, sophomore or junior considering Harvard Law School? Did you know they offer a deferral program that would allow you to graduate from OSU, take a minimum of two years off to pursue your passions, before attending Harvard Law. Want to know more? Check out their website and sign up for an online information session, February 27 from 5-6 PM CST.
We welcome and encourage prospective students to visit the University of Maryland Francis King Carey School of Law. We understand that making the decision to attend law school is an important one so we would like to make the decision-making process easier by opening our doors and classrooms to allow you to explore our school and experience the collegial and collaborative community that makes Maryland unique! In order to take optimal advantage of a visit to the law school, we recommend that prospective students visit a class, take a tour of the school, or attend an Open House event. We also offer a number of online chat sessions and webcast throughout the year to allow you additional opportunities to hear from our faculty, staff and students and to discuss our programs in greater depth.
