About this class:
Sometimes, learning at the college level seems to be like learning magic. Most “magic”
that we see is actually composed of tricks and sleight of hand. In this class, we will unpack some the “tricks” of learning to see if we can cause ourselves to learn in spite of the occasional push back that our minds seem to present. This class considers some very big picture ideas and will touch upon only the edges of a very broad topic. We will talk about ways to think about your thinking process and trick your mind into learning.
I am hoping for very lively in-class discussions.

Course Objective:
The objective of this course is to introduce you to the idea that you can improve your academic success by deliberate and conscious attention to your thinking process.

Course Materials:
All materials will be provided --- there is no textbook

Assignments:
The bulk of the work in this class will be in the form of in-class discussion and participation. The final project will be due on November 17 in the Canvas drop box no later than 11:59 PM.

Grading:
In-class participation 25
Attendance 50
Final Project 25
Course Syllabus
UNIV2510 (Fall 2019)

Attendance:
You must attend both classes until I release that class at the appropriate times.

Learning Environment:
I will expect you engage in class discussions and offer your opinions and thoughts. Please remember, your grade substantially depends on being involved. However, I do require that you remain respectful, polite, and courteous at all times.

Accommodations for Disabilities:
If I can in any way assist you in the learning process, please let me know and I will do my very best to help you.
